

Kayce Rehn

Kayce Rehn joined forces with Stacy Julian in 2005 to launch Big Picture Scrapbooking. In September of 2010 we changed our name to Big Picture Classes to embrace all of the classes we offer: from scrapbooking to photography, we offer all types of classes to feed your creative spirit.

As the COO and Vice President, Kayce not only shares a passion for scrapbooking but is the creative mind behind the website and ensures that Big Picture Classes students have a flawless online classroom experience - the "woman behind the curtain" who, among other things, updates the weekly class materials and designs the instructors' content. Prior to Big Picture Classes Kayce was an art director and web designer for a small advertising firm where she worked on a range of branding and design initiatives including logo development, brochure design and website development.

She loves to scrapbook the little things in life. For her, scrapbooking helps her discover more about who she is and what she loves. Kayce sees each day as an opportunity to make the most of it and savor the little moments. When she isn't scrapping, she enjoys reading a good book, working in her yard, traveling and spending quality time with her family. To learn more about her life outside of Big Picture Classes, visit her blog at <http://Kaycerehn.typepad.com>.